BAD ACCIDENT NEAR VALLONIA

Mrs. George Mantz Severely Burned Saturday Afternoon.—Tried to Extinguish Field Blaze.

HER CLOTHING CAUGHT FIRE

Saved Her Life By Plunging Into a Small Stream of Water on the Farm.

Mrs. George Mantz was seriously burned Saturday evening at her home one mile west of Vallonia.

During the forenoon her husband had been burning brush in a field not far from the house. In the afternoon he went to town and later his wife noticed that the fire had spread from the brush heaps to the dead grass and the blaze was gradually creeping toward a neighbor's field. She went at once to try and extinguish it. She worked for some time beating it with whips and while succeeding in checking the advance of the fire she could not put it out entirely. She began stamping it and her clothing caught fire. In a few moments her dress was ablaze. She began screaming and made a desperate effort to tear off part of her garments which were burning or to extinguish the fire but seeing that she could not do this, and beginning to suffer from burns on her body she fled ot a small branch not far away. Reaching there she laid down and rolled over in the water and succeeded in quenching the fire but not until she had been very badly burned.

In the meantime a neighbor, Mrs. Elijah Miller, attracted by the cries of Mrs. Mantz, arrived, and assisted the injured woman to her home.

A physician was called and gave Mrs. Mantz all the relief possible. While it is not considered that her burns are dangerous she has suffered intensely. Much of the hair was burned from her head and her left side and back were badly burned.

The husband did not hear of the accident and reach home until some time after it happened.

In Serious Condition.

Ray Milburn received a message this afternoon from his mother in San Antonio, Texas, that his sister, Miss Helen Milburn, is seriously ill and that it is feared she can live but a short time. Miss Milburn was taken to Texas last fall with the hope that she would regain her health and she has been doing well until within the last few days.

Undergoes Operation.

Mrs. Ben Price was taken quite sick Saturday. Sunday she was removed to the Schneck Memorial hospital where it was necessary for her to undergo a serious operation that evening. She is resting this afternoon and is doing as well as could be expected.

DIED.

HALLOW—Ephraim Hallow, thirty years old, died at 9:30 a. m. Sunday at this home, three miles west of Seymour. He had been sick with pneumonia and rheumatism about two weeks. He was a son of the late Henry Hallow and spent his entire life in the neighborhood in which he died. He was married about five years ago to Miss Laura Dieckemeyer, who survives him. Two children were born to them but both are dead. He was a member of the Lutheran church. The funeral services will be held at the house Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock and at the church at 2 o'clock and will be conducted by Rev. E. H. Eggers. Burial at the Hackman cemetery west of the city.

CRAFT:—Clarence Craft died Sunday morning at his home in Vallonia. During the winter he had a bad attack of grippe and had been in bad health since; his condition however was not considered serious. Sunday morning about 8 o'clock he became quite sick and died within an hour. He was 23 years old and was a son of Charles Craft, proprietor of the hotel at Vallonia. He was a painter and was unmarried. The funeral services were held Monday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. L. A. Winn of Seymour.

Funeral Tuesday.

The funeral services of Mrs. Carrie Carter Prince will be held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Carter on East Fourth street Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and will be conducted by Dr. C. E. Asbury of the First M. E. church. Burial at Riverview cemetery.

Friends wishing to view the remains will be given an opportunity between the hours of nine and eleven Tuesday morning.

Motorcycle Wrecked.

Sunday while Emerald Whitmer was returning from Indianapolis on his motorcycle his machine received a side swipe from an automobile. The machine was wrecked. The accident occurred near Edinburg. Whitmer saw the auto coming and kept as close to the edge of the road as possible. He saw that he was in danger and jumped from the machine just in time to escape the collision. The auto kept on its course without stopping.

GAVE ADDRESS AT JEFFERSONVILLE

Mrs. Rose Carter Spoke Before Federated Clubs of the Third Congressional District.

CONSERVATION OF CHILDHOOD

Was Discussed by Her.—Subject of Address, "The Parent-Teacher Association."

At the annual meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs of the Third Congressional District of Indiana held at Jeffersonville Saturday. The principal address was made by Mrs. Rose Carter of Seymour, and excited much interest. Her subject was "The Parent-Teacher Association." Seymour has an organization of this kind, it having been formed during the present school year.

The Louisville Courier Journal Sunday said of Mrs. Carter's address:

The talk of Mrs. Carter was on "The Parent-Teacher Association" and dwelt largely upon the conservation of childhood and its educational environments. Mrs. Carter has delivered her address at several places in Indiana and was at Lawrenceburg, where the Fourth district meeting was held last Wednesday.

The address of Mrs. Carter was full of interest to those present and, in part, she said:

"The greatest economic problem confronting the American people today is the conservation of childhood and its educational environments. Every child has certain inherent rights that should and must be recognized if he is to develop normally. I mean by a normal development the highest, finest, the most perfect physical, mental and spiritual development of which the child is capable. The club women of Indiana have enlisted in a grand onward movement, which should deeply concern every parent within the boundaries of its wide domain. The parent-teacher movement now invading the public school system comprehends all phases of childhood and its education in its most impressionable age of development.

"The air and purpose of this organization is to raise the standard of home life of the inexperienced and unknowing and to develop wiser trained mothers, to the end that they may better perform the duties of parenthood. To bring into closer relation, the home and school, that parent and teacher may co-operate intelligently in the education of the child, to surround childhood with that loving, wise care in the impressionable years of life that will develop good citizenship instead of law-breakers and criminals. To use systematic, earnest effort to this end through the formation of Parent-Teacher clubs in every public school, including country and village as well as city.

"In the evolution of this problem our first consideration is the mother, the mother who does her part in rearing and training aright the boys and girls who are to be the men and women of the next generation. No scheme of education, no social attitude, can be right unless it is based fundamentally upon the recognition of the home. We should consider then that the unity of society is the home, the most sacred spot known to the human heart. It is a place of rest, joy and inspiration. It offers a sphere for the employment of the best talent of man and woman. The ideal home has in it the wisdom of age, eth strength of mature life, the inspiration of youth and the beauty of childhood. It is, if you please, the vitalized germ of state.

"Before leaving the subject of the home I desire to call your special attention to an omission of the State Board of Health. An oversight, I am sure, but vital in its consequential interests to the home and child. While I entertain a very high regard for our own invincible, Dr. J. N. Hurty, its secretary, with all his intensity of purpose relative to higher ideals and a higher plane of life in all its complexities and conventionalities, I believe an advance step in the right direction will be made when the State Board of Health will furnish and see that the attending physician or midwife distribute to every mother at the time of her accouchement, a booklet of full instructions printed in simple language that she may read and understand the complete rules and practice of hygiene including diet, daily baths, proper clothing, exercise, ventilation, fresh air, sunshine etc., that the mother may have a better child from the time it enters the home until the school age of 6 years."

Mrs. Carter then took up the school inspection law now on the statute books and discussed it from the stand point of its great benefit to the children of the masses, calling attention to the frequency of adanoids, enlarged turbinates of the nose, decayed teeth and defective vision, either of which would cause a serious lagging of the child in his studies, and which could be recognized by competent medical inspection and remedied. Mrs. Carter advised a closer personal relation between parents and teachers, and pointed out the benefits that would follow. She asserted that 90 per cent. of the case of discipline in the schools were properly handled and asked those present if they did that well at home. In concluding her remarks, Mrs. Carter said:

"The day will come when early specializing will be a feature of the general school system and boys and girls will hardly know just when they stopped learning and just when they began living. In conclusion I desire to say that the golden dawn of better childhood conditions are here. When home economics, sanitation, hygiene, physical culture, school inspection, occupational and industrial training shall be made a part of the daily routine of the schoolroom. When every community shall have an active working parent-teacher organization. When we shall consider the mother, child and teacher, the great triumvirate upon which this Government will continue in perpetulty. When we shall more freely appreciate what the general public school system of today is doing for religion, then will prophetic vision have tinted the horizon with all that could be desired in the dream of life."

Birthday Party.

Saturday was the sixth anniversary of the birth of Homer Oscar, little son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Wesner. Today his sister, Emma Maud, was seven. In honor of the two birthdays, Mrs. Alice K. Smith gave a children's party Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock at her home on North Ewing street. Those present were Freda and Margaret Hall, Frances and Maria Reinhardt, Jennie and Anna Widener, Frances White, Florence Osier, Narcissus Redman and Donald Bush, all living in the neighborhood. Cream and cake and other dainty refreshments of which children are fond were served. Two birthday cakes, one having six burning candles and the other seven, had been made by the hostess. A maypole and various games were greatly enjoyed by the little folks, who all agreed that Mrs. Smith knows just what children like. She was assisted during the afternoon by Mrs. Wesner and Miss Goldie Foster.

The Blues Won.

A car load of base ball enthusiasts went to Crothersville Sunday afternoon to witness the game between the Blues and the Hoosier Dandies of Jeffersonville. The pitching of Kovenor and the hitting of the Blues were features of the game. Crowder of Louisville, did a rather rank job of umpiring. The score was:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	r	h	e

Batteries—Kovenor and Harold; Chapman and Wieting. Two-base Hits—D. D. Wieting, Harold, McElfresh, Kattman. Sacrifice Hit—Chapman. Stolen Bases—Beldon, Ewing. Double Play—H. Wieting and Quick. Struck Out—By Kovenor 10; by Chapman 3. Bases on Balls—Off Kovenor 1; off Chapman 2.

The Reccius ball club defeated the Kiesels at Louisville Sunday by a score of 1 to 0. The Old Hill Sides won from the Sapinsky team by a score of 4 to 1. Thus far this season, the Reccius and Old Hill Sides have each won two games. The Crothersville Blues and the Keisels have each lost one game and won one. The Hoosier Dandies and the Sapinsky club have no victories to their credit thus far this season.

Sunday School Organized.

A Sunday School was organized at the Cox school at Chestnut Ridge Sunday. The officers elected were Mrs. George W. Collins, superintendent; Frank Linke, assistant superintendent; Mrs. Frank Linke, secretary; Crawford Cox, treasurer. Mrs. Collins has just moved to the neighborhood from Seymour while Mr. and Mrs. Linke moved there from Texas recently. The Chestnut Ridge neighborhood welcomes the new families and appreciates their undertaking for good.

Brownstown Defeated.

The Brownstown ball team was defeated at Bedford Sunday afternoon by a score of 8 to 0. Tabert and Lucas formed the battery for Brownstown and Fletcher and Leman for Bedford. The umpire was Aker. A large crowd witnessed the game.

Attention, Rebekahs!

The Rebekahs will meet at the hall Monday night for drill practice. All members are requested to be present.

THE STATEMENT WAS DECEPTIVE

Declares Victim of Evansville Bank Failure.

HE NOW SUES THE DIRECTORS

Stockholder in the Citizens' National Bank of Evansville, Whose President Committed Suicide Following Exposure, Sues For Repayment of Investment, Alleging Directors of Bank Issued Misleading Statement.

Indianapolis, May 8.—In the suit filed in the federal court by Bert E. Nonweller of Louisville, a stockholder of the Citizens' National bank, an effort to fix legal responsibility for failure of the Citizens' National bank of Evansville, on the directors is made.

January, 1909, indictments were returned against Simon P. Gillett, its president, and against William Swormstedt, cashier, and embezzlement and violations of the national banking laws were charged.

Gillett committed suicide prior to the time his case was to be called. Swormstedt, who had pleaded guilty to one charge, received a suspended sentence.

Nonweller, who seeks $20,000 damages, alleges that by reason of reports concerning the condition of the bank, which were certified by the directors, and which also were published in newspapers, he was induced to invest $18,000 in the bank's stock. He alleges that the statements gave resources at a larger amount than existed and the liaiblities as less than they were.

The directors, who are made defendants, include some of the wealthier residents of Evansville.

AN EXPOSE PROMISED

Former Indianapolis Councilman, Now in Jail, Writing a Book.

Indianapolis, May 8.—John F. Wood, former city councilman, has written a book entitled "Graft in Indianapolis." Wood is in jail waiting trial for grand larceny.

"The manuscript is practically ready," said Wood, "and it will be submitted for publication just as soon as I put on the finishing touches. It will relate every incident from the time I entered the city council until the time I left it.

"The book will name everybody. No one will be spared. It will mention transactions with public service corporations, contractors, business men, councilmen and some individuals."

Escaped From Detective.

Linton, Ind., May 8.—John Tucker, alias C. W. Wilson, who was arrested at Elizabethtown, Ky., charged with forging a note for $265 on the First National bank of Linton, escaped from Detective Webster of the Bankers' Security company by jumping off the boat into the Ohio river. He is supposed to have been drowned, as no trace has been found of him.

He Took It to Heart.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 8.—The body of Henry W. Steinmuller, a well-known young man, was found in a clump of bushes on the bank of the Wabash river here. A revolver clutched in his hand and a note beside him told the method and reason for suicide. He has been married five weeks, and jealousy of his wife was given as the cause of suicide.

Heard on Serious Charge.

Hammond, Ind., May 8.—James Finneran president of the Electrical Workers' Union of Lake county, was arrested on a charge of criminally assaulting Evelyn Florin, fifteen years old, a ward of the Sisters at St. Francis at St. Margaret's hospital at Hammond, whom, it is alleged, he lured away from the hospital. Finneran is under a $3,500 bond.

Indiana Rebekahs to Meet.

Indianapolis, May 8.—The twenty-seventh annual session of the Rebekah assembly of Indiana will be held in the I. O. O. F. grand lodge hall, beginning at 2 p. m., Monday, May 15. The president, Mrs. Ora E. Norris of Crawfordsville, will preside. The reports for the year show a net gain of twenty-six, the membership now being 44,592.

Young Girl's Fatal Mistake.

Bloomington, Ind., May 8.—Burns which she received from the explosion of a gasoline can while she was preparing a meal, resulted in the death of Grace, fourteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Thomas Easton. Mistaking the gasoline for kerosene, the girl poured it in a cookstove containing live coals.

A SEARCHING INQUIRY INTO DYNAMITE CASE

Grand Jury At Indianapolis Begins Investigation.

Indianapolis, May 8.—Precautions for keeping the evidence submitted and the deliberations of the jury secret are being taken, with the convening of the grand jury today to inquire into the dynamiting cases and the unlawful storing of dynamite in the basement of the American Central Life building in the heart of the city and the Jones stable. There are four officers on guard in the corridors of the courthouse and at the witness the courthouse and at the witness room of the grand jury. The witnesses are not allowed to confer with anyone before giving their testimony, and they are being charged by the prosecutor not to talk to anyone of the questions asked for the evidence given on pain of arrest for contempt.

It is said there is little doubt that John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Iron Workers, will be indicted for storing the dynamite in the Central Life building and for using the Jones stable for a similar purpose. Such storage is contrary to law, and the evidence of the janitor of the building and the owner of the stable will be positive against him.

The finding of the dynamite in the basement of the iron workers' headqaurters has caused much feeling, and this feeling is believed to have reached the grand jury. One of the questions to be sifted by the jury is whether any other members of the iron workers' union were parties to the storing of the dynamite, and if so, who they were.

Many Wild Rumors Afloat.

Elwood, Ind., May 8.—The discovery of seven sticks of dynamite and a number of nitroglycerine caps in an abandoned outhouse in the south part of the city has caused great excitement, and many wild rumors are afloat.

HE WILL PROSECUTE

Monroe County Night Riders' Victim Takes Case to Court.

Bloomington, Ind., May 8.—Warrants for the arrest of seven men charged with being among the number of those present at the recent "whitecapping" of Harvey McFarley, a farmer, have been sworn out by McFarley. Three of those against whom writs were issued are residents of the city of Bloomington, who formerly lived in the neighborhood of the flogging. The other four reside near Paynetown, in the southeast part of the county. When arrested and arraigned all entered pleas of not guilty and gave bond for further hearing.

Prosecutor Regester says that the grand jury will be convened to make a thorough investigation of the charges against each one of the accused.

Killed Brother and Himself.

Erie, Pa., May 8.—Maddened because his brother had prevailed upon him to sign a note, William Larter, aged twenty-three, shot and killed the brother, George Larter, aged thirty, secured the note from the dead brother's pocket, tore it into shreds and then fired a bullet through his own head.

Confesses Killing Detective.

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 8.—William Russell, the bandit who, it is charged, shot and killed Detective Harry Noble of the Nickel Plate railroad at Bellevue, O., a few days ago, has confessed that crime and also that he is the man who shot William Van Ness in a hold-up job here a day or two previous.

Thefts at Soldiers' Home.

Marion, Ind., May 8.—Fifteen members of the Marion national military home have been summoned to appear in Governor Steele's court as the result of a secret investigation of the wholesale theft of clothing and other supplies from the institution that has been in progress several days.

Forest fires surrounding the town of Mays Landing, N. J., destroyed thousands of dollars' worth of timber.

A SCHOOL FOR NEW POLICEMEN

They Are Thoroughly Instructed as to Their Duties.

CHICAGO TRYING THE SCHEME

Object Is to Do Away With Lack of Specialized Training as the Basic Cause of Inefficiency—Course at School Covers Three Months.

In nearly every city of any size one of the terrors is the "new policeman." The newspapers frequently record misdeeds. Indiscriminate use of weapons, officiousness and even crimes have been charged against him. The city of Chicago has undertaken to supply the remedy and has established a school of instruction for probationary policemen.

No effort is made to give the new men a general education. The school deals solely with the duties of the policeman. He is instructed on the following subjects:

Rules and regulations of the department, city ordinances and criminal law.

First aid to the injured and enforcement of the sanitary regulations.

The conduct of police court business through the actual operation of a mock court.

The preparation of evidence in criminal cases by an assistant corporation counsel.

Practical police work and special police duty, such as suppression of gambling, traffic regulation, detective work and identification by officers specially qualified.

Use of the revolver by trained experts.

Drill and setting up exercise by the drillmaster of the department.

For one month the new policemen do not leave the school. The second month of their service they are placed for one week on traffic duty in the downtown district and the other three weeks on special assignments in other precincts. During this second month they report at the school every Saturday, submitting written reports of their police duty and receiving additional instructions.

Keep In Touch With School.

The third month of their service the new policemen do not report directly to the school, but they are obliged to make weekly reports on their police duty, and where they fail to accomplish results they are sent back to the school for additional instructions.

The school is managed entirely by members of the police department of the city of Chicago, and the new officers are available for duty at any time they are needed.

A sample day's program of the work of the school gives an idea of what the new policemen are taught. It is as follows:

8 a. m.—Roll call.

8 a. m. to 9:30 a. m.—Setting up exercise and drill.

9:30 a. m. to 10 a. m.—Instructions on rules and regulations and correspondence.

10 a. m. to 11 a. m.—Instructions on city ordinances on explosives, fireworks and throwing missiles.

11 a. m. to 12 noon—Instructions on crimes, murder and manslaughter.

Noon to 1 p. m.—Luncheon.

1 p. m. to 2 p. m.—Instruction on traffic rules.

2 p. m. to 3 p. m.—Instructions on the city ordinances on pool selling and bookmaking.

3 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.—Study.

3:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.—Instruction on preparation of evidence.

4:30 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.—Revolver practice.

Subjects Vary by Days.

The subjects on which instructions are given vary from day to day, but the program is so arranged that of the 170 hours the new policemen pass at the school thirty are devoted to the study of the rules and regulations of the department, thirty to that of the city ordinances, thirty to that of the criminal law, thirty to drill and setting up exercise, eight to revolver practice, eight to traffic regulation, four to instruction in first aid to the injured and the enforcement of the sanitary regulations, sixteen in general study, eight in attendance at court and six in miscellaneous work.

Saturdays are devoted entirely to drill, instruction in practical police work and review and examination.

All through their course at the school the new policemen are marked on all their work, and if they fail to attain the proper degree of efficiency they are dropped from the force.

UNIQUE ACCIDENT.

Boy's Chest Penetrated by Needle While Playing Baseball.

Sliding to second in an effort to beat the catcher's throw, William Jungfleisch, fifteen years old, of Philadelphia collided with the second baseman in a ball game and in the mixup pierced himself just below the heart with a large sailmaker's needle which he was carrying in his pocket.

The needle penetrated the boy's chest for nearly two inches, missing the heart only by a fraction of an inch. With part of the long needle still protruding from his breast he was taken to a hospital, where an operation was found to be necessary before it could be removed.

After the needle had been successfully removed the physicians stated that it was remarkable that the boy had not been killed.

BANGOR, MAINE, ONE OF NEW ENGLAND'S FAMOUS CITIES

Lumber Mart For Years and a Port of Entry—Named After a Tune.

Bangor, Me., which was recently the scene of a conflagration that cost many millions of dollars and several lives, is the only large city in the eastern section of that state.

It is the seat of Penobscot county, a port of entry, and is the natural distributing point for all the territory embraced in five adjoining counties, which have a combined population of approximately a quarter of a million.

The Bangor and Aroostook is the most important of several lines of railroads that furnish the city with inland shipping facilities. For many years Bangor has been one of the most important lumber marts in the world, although today it is considered essentially a wholesale center.

Situated on both banks of the Kenduskeag river at the juncture with the Penobscot, several important bridges connect the two divisions of the town There is also a bridge across the Penobscot, connecting Bangor with Brewer.

Bangor is the third largest city in the state, exceeded only by Portland and Lewiston. It has various foundries, with machine shops, furniture factories, steam planing, pulp, paper and woolen mills and boot and shoe factories. A dam built across the Penobscot river, just above the city, furnishes the great motive power for the mills.

Foreign commerce, coastwise trade and shipbuilding have flourished in Bangor. Numerous vessels clear from Bangor for foreign ports annually. Several hundred coastwise vessels ply between Bangor and ports along the Atlantic annually.

The city is the seat of the Bangor Theological Congregational seminary, which was founded in 1816. The Eastern Maine Insane asylum and the Eastern Maine General hospital are situated there. Most of Bangor's streets are broad and well shaded with aged elms. The chief public building was the custom house, a granite structure, which cost about $100,000.

Bangor had fourteen churches, among them three Congregational, two Baptist, two Methodist and two Roman Catholic. It had fifty-three public schools, six national banks, three state banks, two savings banks, one daily and one weekly newspaper. Within a walking distance of the city is situated the University of Maine.

Fully a mile of docks line Bangor's water front. The tide rises sometimes to seventeen feet, making it possible for deep draft vessels to load there. The city is also the doorway to the hunting regions, attracting in the summer and fall thousands of sportsmen. It had several hotels.

Bangor was incorporated as a town in 1791 and as a city in 1834. It got its name from the tune "Bangor."

PREFER DEATH BY SHOOTING.

Utah Murderers Never Choose the Alternative of Hanging

Why do condemned murderers choose shooting in preference to hanging? Since the state of Utah passed a law giving convicts this choice, Arthur Pratt, warden of the Utah state prison, has not had one who would go to the gallows. On one occasion a murderer refused to make a choice, and the judge sentenced him to be hanged.

Pratt was warden of the Utah penitentiary when it was a government prison twenty-two years ago. Eight years ago he was appointed warden and since that time has made it one of the model prisons of the country.

"Utah has a law which allows a condemned murderer to choose either hanging or shooting as a mode of dying," said Warden Pratt. "This work is done by the sheriffs of each county, but in the penitentiary yard. So far we have not had a man who has chosen hanging. Once a murderer refused to make a choice, and the judge sentenced him to be hanged. Shooting is the more humane. It is painless and instantaneous. The condemned man is led to the prison yard, seated on a chair and if he desires is blindfolded. Five men armed with rifles are then marched to within ten paces of the man. Four of the rifles contain ball cartridges. The fifth has a blank shell. A target is pinned over the heart of the condemned man, all five guards take careful aim, and at a signal the volley is fired. The ordeal is over in a few moments, whereas in hanging the suspense and suffering last for many minutes."

THE DATE OF EASTER.

According to the present system of determining Easter, it can never fall before the 22d of March or later than the 25th of April. In 1761 and 1818 Easter fell on the first possible day—that is, the 22d of March—but that will not happen again during the present century. Next year, however, will be the nearest date, as Easter then falls on March 23. The latest Easter of this century will occur in 1943, when it will fall on the 25th of April, or the latest day possible

OHIO CITIES TO RUN PAWNSHOPS

New Buckeye State Law Said to Be First of Its Kind.

A BOON TO THE WORTHY POOR

They Will Be Enabled to Borrow Money Without Being Forced to Pay the Exorbitant Rates Demanded by "Loan Sharks."

The Bertsch municipal pawn department bill, said to be the first of its kind, has just become a law in Ohio. The new law takes its name from Joseph F. Bertsch, its author. Some foreign countries have such departments, but they have been established by the cities without asking the state for authority or power therefor.

The new law is intended to be of benefit to the worthy poor, and its working in Ohio will be watched with interest by the authorities of other states with a view to adopting some such measure in their localities.

There are thousands of deserving persons whose income does not allow of their acquiring real estate or saving money. And there are times when these people need money, and quickly. The problem has been where and how they will get it. Banks and loan associations will not lend money without security. The only way, then, that is open to them is the pawnbroker or the private loan agent. Frequently an exorbitant interest is charged, and the so called loan sharks are not overscrupulous. The municipal pawn department is established for the benefit of this class of borrowers. Poor people who are deserving of help will thus be given an opportunity to borrow money at the lowest possible rate of interest and on the most reasonable security.

Under the Bertsch act these loan departments are to be a subdepartment of the department of public service and are to be presided over by a superintendent appointed by the mayor. The city council is given power to levy a tax for the purpose of creating a fund out of which the loans are to be made. Not more than 6 per cent per annum is to be charged to any pawner.

WOMEN TO RUN A REPUBLIC.

Formed Like United States Government, With Congress and Cabinet.

An American woman's republic, as a scheme of commercial rehabilitation, is the plan of E. G. Lewis, the financial wizard of University City, Mo. Mr. Lewis has surrendered the management of his $6,500,000 properties, which include his various publications and town site, to a board of trustees to be appointed by 101 eastern magazine publishers who have been identified with the American Women's league.

Lewis proposes to demonstrate the ability of woman to conduct the affairs of state now almost wholly vested in man. University City is to be the capital of the American Women's Republic—the centralization of a national government for women, with 1,000,000 constituents. The American Women's league will be the nucleus. The republic will be organized in University City next January by the election of a congress. The congress will elect a president. The 2,000 local chapters of the American Women's league will choose a house of representatives. The president will have a secretary of the interior, war, commerce and state, and a treasurer and attorney general. A supreme court of three women lawyers will be organized. The referendum and recall will apply to the president.

The supreme court will be in session in University City eight months in the year. It will decide all questions relating to members of the republic and its rulings are to be final. Lewis expects to become the field agent for his latest project and estimates that in five years he will have increased the membership to 1,000,000.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

How Catcher Henry Was Discovered.

It must be true that ball players are born and not made. True, all of them need to have the rough edges taken off and experience to perfect them, but a good ball player is usually so from the time he starts out.

In Henry, Washington has picked up a player who is sure to shine, and no one excepting Scout Mike Kahoe deserves credit for his being with the team.

Kahoe was sent to Amherst to look over a pitcher named McClure. He saw him and dismissed him from his mind, because he did not think that he was cut out for a major league career. But it was the big, husky youngster who was catching him that attracted Kahoe's attention, and he immediately laid lines to secure him. So instead of bringing back the man he was sent after Kahoe secured Henry, and in so doing he probably brought a player who will do much to make the Nationals a winning aggregation.

May Revise Cricket Rules.

After a delay of at least fifty years an agitation has been begun in England to put more snap into cricket. The scheme of the Cricketers' association is to make the bat narrower and the stumps higher.

Followers of the sport charge that the game as played now takes too much time and add that "this fact alone has prevented it from taking any serious root in the United States, where keeness on games is every bit as great as in the English islands and colonies."

All the big matches now take three days, and even then are frequently drawn for want of time. The proposal is to limit the bat to three and one-half inches across the blade, instead of four and one-quarter, the present width, and to increase the stumps from twenty-seven to twenty-nine inches. This, it is estimated, will enable the four innings to be ended in one-third of the time they now require.

Runner Monument to Quit.

Jack Monument, the senior and junior mile champion of the United States, has announced that he will never run another race. This dire news came in a letter from Monument to Trainer Lawson Robertson, notifying the Irish American coach that he would not be on the job this year. Monument gives business cares as the reason for his leaving the cinder path. Monument's decision to quit athletics is a distinct loss to the sport. He is known as a quiet, gentlemanly fellow and as game a man as ever put on a running shoe. It is thought that the coming on of real summer weather and a few peeps at his fellow athletes in action may induce Monument to reconsider and come out on the path for another season. All the influence that the Irish American Athletic club can bring to bear will be used to get the mile champion into his running togs again.

Holmer to Race Abroad.

Hans Holmer, who recently defeated Ljungstrom in a fifteen mile race in New York, has received an offer from a European promoter who was present when Holmer won the Powder Hall Marathon at Edinburgh, Scotland, and who wants to take Holmer on a tour of the world. He has asked Hans to come to England immediately after his race with Ljungstrom and from there proposes going to Italy, Africa, South America and Australia.

Kilpatrick After All Around Title.

J. R. Kilpatrick, Yale's track captain, will enter the all round championship at the meet to be held in Chicago in June. The track and football star weighs nearly 200 pounds. He is a good man in the weights, hurdles and the jumps. He will compete against Garrels, the famous Chicago athlete; F. C. Thompson of Los Angeles and other western stars.

PRESIDENT DIAZ GOING TO RESIGN

Reserves to Himself the Privilege of Deciding When.

NOT GOING TO BE CROWDED OUT

In a Manifesto Issued to the Mexican People the President Says He Will Give Up Long Lease on Office When, According to His Own Judgment, His Resignation Will Not Be Followed by Anarchy.

Mexico City, May 8.—President Diaz announces, in a manifesto issued Sunday night, addressed to the people of the republic of Mexico, his intention to resign his office immediately on the restoration of peace. The president reserves to himself the privilege of deciding when the conditions are such as to make possible this promised resignation. In his own words he indicates that time will be "when, according to the dictates of my conscience, I am sure that my resignation will not be followed by anarchy."

President Diaz unmistakably shows it to be his purpose not to retire while the country is involved in war, and he further makes it clear that he will not resign at any time under compulsion.

The manifesto was published this morning, and it will not be officially transmitted to the insurrectos. The president holds that he is responsible only to the people of Mexico, and the statement of his intentions shall only reach Madero and his followers incidentally as it does the other people of the republic.

PEACE IN SIGHT

Maderists Say That All Will Be Well With Diaz Out.

El Paso, May 8.—Francisco I. Madero, provisional president of Mexico, has issued the following statement: "I am very glad to receive the news of the manifesto of General Porfirio Diaz, because that means that peace will be restored all through the republic in a few days. General Diaz, with this act, has won the gratitude of the Mexican people and the sympathy of the world. I think that peace negotiations will be taken up again at once and that an armistice will be declared for the whole republic at once."

Madero had already sent out couriers to bring back the marching army which had been started toward the capital, and machinery was at once set in motion for the peace commissioners to meet this afternoon and for the officers of the insurrectos and federals to sign up an armistice.

Dr. Vasquez Gomez states that he thinks peace will now be secured. Francisco Madero, sr., expressed the same opinion. Judge Francisco Carabajal, the federal commissioner, expressed the hope that the commission would get together at once. It is said that Orozco and Villa and their men had decided to disregard Madero's orders and attack Juarez at midnight last night if they had not heard of the proposed retirement of Diaz. Madero had declared against an attack on Juarez, fearing complications with the United States arising out of a battle so near the border, it being certain that El Paso could not escape the scattering fire incident to a battle on the other side of the river.

Ambushed by Federals.

San Diego, Cal., May 8.—Shot from ambush, Jack Mosby, son of the noted Confederate general, is dying at Tecate, Lower California. Mosby had been leading a band of insurrectos and he and a party were ambushed ten miles southwest of Teca'e by a detachment of federals. The first volley caused Mosby to pitch from his horse. Two federals were killed by a volley fired by the insurrectos.

They Have Had Enough.

Gary, Ind., May 8.—Fearing a repetition of the recent "Black Hand" dynamite outrage, which cost the lives of two men and resulted in the injury of a score of others, more than 250 Gary Italians have quit the service of the United States Steel corporation and left for other parts.

The revolutionary uprising in Mexico has spread to the state of Tamaulipas, and the rebels have taken Camargo and Mier, on the bank of the Rio Grande.

PRESIDENT DIAZ

Who Says He Will Resign as Soon as Peace Is Restored.

RETIREMENT OF DIAZ WILL STRAIN MEXICO

Washington Doubtful Concerning New situation.

Washington, May 8.—Officers of the government received with joy the news that President Diaz had promised to resign when peace is restored, and are now hopeful of a settlement of the present difficulties in Mexico. It is believed here that the retirement of Diaz was practically forced by the announcement of Senor Francisco I. Madero, leader of the insurrectos, that he intended to march upon Mexico City.

While the retirement of Diaz will unquestionably tend to alleviate the seriousness of the present situation in Mexico, it is admitted at the department that the complete restoration of peace and the resumption of business will come slowly. A confusing situation will develop in Mexico through the retirement of Diaz. When he retires, Ramon Corral, now vice president, who is abroad for his health, will become the constitutional president of Mexico. Corral several weeks ago resigned from the cabinet and went to Europe for medical treatment. He has not resigned as vice president of the country, and in an interview in Paris several days ago insisted that he did not intend to quit. Corral is unpopular in Mexico, and the insurgents would not agree to allow him to succeed President Diaz. Some means will have to be found of removing him from the tangled situation.

It is expected here that Francisco Leon De La Barra, now minister of foreign affairs, will become provisional president of the country, pending the holding of an election. The selection of De La Barra would be satisfactory to the insurrectos.

While the retirement of Diaz is regarded by the United States authorities as a desirable development under the present circumstances, it is in itself sufficiently serious to cause grave concern and uncertainty. Mexico for many years has been held together by the strong hand of this ruler. Whether the country has now reached a state of development fit for self-government in the broader sense is uncertain. Certainly a severe test will come when Diaz steps down and out.

BEGAN HELPING HIMSELF

Man Walked Into a Mt. Vernon Bank and Made a Reach For the Money.

Mt. Vernon, Ind., May 8.—A man who says he is William Hines and his residence at McLeansboro, Ill., made an unsuccessful attempt to rob the People's Bank and Trust company.

The robber carried a big club and walked up to the cashier's window, reached in and commenced helping himself to the money. The cashier called to the other employes of the bank and the robber rushed out. Later he was arrested. It is thought he is demented.

Murderous Negro Electrocuted.

Raleigh, N. C., May 8.—Lewis West, the first of the murderers who killed five police chiefs in North Carolina within as many months, and who killed Officer Munford at Wilson, was electrocuted at the state prison here Saturday. All the assassins were negroes and four others are to follow West for their crimes in the course of the next month.

Beer Poured Into River.

Wabash, Ind., May 8.—Under orders from the prosecuting attorney Sheriff Freeman destroyed 1,400 bottles of beer confiscated in a "blind tiger" raid six weeks ago. The bottles were taken to the Wabash river on a dray and each was broken and the beer poured into the stream.

Child Takes Reprimand to Heart.

Nicholasville, Ky., May 8.—Reprimanded by her mother because she had broken a plate, Hallie Blakeman, ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Blakeman, committed suicide by shooting herself in the breast with her father's pistol.

RING RECORDS NO ASSISTANCE

Nothing to Base a Guess On In West Virginia.

SPECIAL SESSION PERPLEXING

There Being No Precedents to Go on, Even the Most Audacious "Dopesters" Admit Inability to Forecast Outcome of Fight Between Governor Glasscock and Two United States Senators and Their Followers.

Charleston, W. Va., May 8.—Both the advocates and opponents of the primary election law, the subject to be considered, await the coming of the lawmakers a fortnight hence and are making ready for the fray when the West Virginia legislature convenes in special session. While some interest is displayed in the preliminaries, the big mill between the governor and two United States senators has the attention of the politicians of both parties.

One peculiar feature of the coming contest between the political gladiators is that it cannot be doped out by the political dopesters. A deep silence among several Republican state senators who have opposed a primary election law in the past, and a loud huzzah from several Democratic state senators, who announce openly they will support the governor in his demand for a primary, has had the result of perplexing the prognosticators. Ring records are of no assistance, and so far as the state senate is concerned one cannot foretell its future actions by its past record.

The fight against the primary law by the strongest supporters of Senators Chilton and Watson has gone merrily on during the past week, while those who are in favor of the primary reform are not idle and insist that the state senate will enact the legislation for which it has been called in extra session.

Another peculiar feature of the contest is the apparent snubbing of the house of delegates. Both sides seem to think the higher branch of the legislature is the answer to the proposed legislation and the house of delegates, with more than forty Democratic majority, is almost entirely overlooked. The reason is apparent, for in the regular session of last winter the lower house passed a primary law with only five dissenting votes. It is generally expected to repeat that action, although there are many supporters of Senators Chilton and Watson in the lower branch who will hesitate at the special session.

Didn't Reach Their Expectations.

New York, May 8.—The last session of the sale of the library of the late Robert Hoe was held Saturday afternoon and netted $42,876.5. This brought the total of the whole sale to $997,363.50, or more than $2,000 short of the million-dollar mark that the followers of the sale had wished for.

Another Postoffice Robbery.

Lafayette, Ind., May 8.—The postoffice at Colburn was visited by burglars, who obtained $100 in stamps, $25 in money and considerable merchandise from Postmaster Anderson's general store.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Rene Valion, a French aviator, fell while making a flight at Shanghai, and was instantly killed.

E. F. Richardson of Denver and H. N. Granfield of New York, both attorneys, were killed in an auto accident near Denver.

A forest and grass fire burned over five square miles of territory on the outskirts of Biddeford, Me., several houses being included in the destruction.

All the interior Moroccan tribes have proclaimed a holy war and are reported to be in full control of all the country between Fez and Mequines.

Charged with attempting to poison the family for whom they worked, two negroes were taken from officers near Louisville, Miss., by a mob and hanged.

Sunday was Uncle Joe Cannon's seventy-fifth birthday, and his Washington friends remembered the day by contributing a room full of flowers and a wagon load of presents.

Marshal Busby of Paton, Ia., was killed, one bank robber was shot to death and a second is seriously injured as a result of a fight between the officer and the bandits.

Rev. F. S. Carroll, assistant rector of the Church of the Ascension, one of Washington's fashionable Episcopalian churches, has announced that he intends to go on the stage.

President Taft has practically decided to appoint W. T. Vernon, former register of the treasury, to be minister to Hayti, succeeding Henry W. Furniss of Indianapolis, whose resignation will take effect Juyl 1.

"I have made a failure of life. Please overlook what I have done," was the grim message, addressed to his wife, found beside the body of Prof. Fred Lemar Charles of the University of Illinois, who killed himself by buckling a book-strap around his neck and then pulling it until he shut off his air supply.

KENTUCKY UNITED ON THESE PROPOSITIONS

Both Parties Declare for Better Schools and Roads.

Louisville, Ky., May 8.—It has been quite the rage in Kentucky for candidates for nominations from both political parties to write their platforms and tell where they stand on public questions. All candidates, from governor down to constable, both in the Democratic and Republican parties, are agreed on two planks—they are all for good roads and good schools. All announcements of candidates in Kentucky these days begin as follows: "I am in favor of good roads and better schools." Therefore it looks like Kentucky is bound to get some good roads and better schools."

"Big Ollie" James has been in Kentucky "whooping it up" in the interest of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for United States senator. Mr. James spoke at several different points in the state, and he says the people everywhere give him assurance of their support.

MERELY SPIRITUAL

Is "Comfort" Assured Disappointed Wives by This Free Love League.

Vienna, May 8.—A Vienna husband has brought about the discovery of the Woman's International Free Love League, which has headquarters in Milan. The league exists for the purpose of finding affinities, and husbands are sore. It distributes its circulars among the wealthiest classes, guaranteeing in consideration of a subscription, to put the subschribers in communication with a "comforter" should the husband misunderstand them.

The Vienna husband who brought about the exposure found one of the circulars in the possession of his wife. An investigation followed. The managers told the police that there were thousands of members in every country in the world, but said that the consolation provided was entirely spiritual, so the police refused to interfere.

Deadlock Held to the End.

Denver, Col., May 8.—The joint assembly of the Colorado legislature was dissolved without breaking the deadlock which has developed since the convening of the legislature early in January. The result will be that Colorado will be represented by only one senator, a Republican, for two years.

Glass Worker's Horrid Death.

Fairmont, W. Va., May 8.—George Dehainaut, aged forty years, employed by the Fairmont Window Glass company, fell in a glass pit and was burned to death.

FILLING THE VACANCY.

Editor Republican:

The action of the council in electing another member from the south end is almost as popular as was the railroad through the city park. It is the fault of the able Democratic legal lights who run the "old town." At the time of the new member's election he was a county officer. He was a councilman from the moment the vote was announced. No further steps were necessary to make him more of a councilman, hence he was holding two offices and did not mail his resignation of the county office until the next day. Now is he a "city dad" or not?

Again was he a bonafide resident of the city one year prior to his appointment? He closed his house in the city and moved to his farm and has not been back in the city a year yet. Where is his legal residence? Has the gentleman ever made a declaration on this subject? We are just asking these questions for mere amusement because these are very forceful reasons why the new incumbant should have a seat in our city council.

He is about the latest Democrat to arrive in the city therefore entitled to an office. He is fresh from the country and of course knows all about running a city government. He lives south of the B. & O., now giving five of the seven members to the south end of the city. This is such a fair and equal distribution of representation in the council. No sensible man ought ever to register a kick. It makes no difference if more than half of the population of Seymour is north of the B. & O. Councilman Davison is able to take care of all the north end alone. We might have had the new member from the north end however, had the Democrats stood together and acted wisely.

But at the psychological moment they divided and disagreed as they do most of the time.

A good Republican friend of mine once said to one of his discouraged brethren when things seemed to be dead against his party, "Never mind, John, we will win; the Democrats can always be depended upon to split up and make d—— fools of themselves when the proper time comes."

It is needless to say what happened. This city ought and will go Republican with a whoop at the next election. Whenever any party strays from the path of right and good government, it deserves a rebuke at the hands of the people.

There is already too much boss and politician rule and too little of rule on the part of the people and let us hope that the latter will wake up in Seymour one of these days, demand and take back their own.

The Trend Towards Osteopathy.

(Editorial Cincinnati Enquirer.)

"The whole tendency of medical thought and experience now is in the direction of abandoning the extensive use of drugs. Just as the teaching of a moral liberal religion has softened, if not destroyed, the old orthodox dogmas of original sin, fore-ordination and eternal hell, the growth of homeopathy has immensely modified the old orthodox allopathic system of bleeding and drastic administration of drugs.

Both these influences have been sturdily resisted by the standpatters in religion and medicine, but both have largely succeeded. Insurgency is the order of the day everywhere. Another more recent influence which has helped to reduce drug-giving has been the coming of osteopathy, which has found its way to reluctant recognition.

"It has unquestionably demonstrated that many ills for which drugs were being given grew out of osseous (bony) displacements or maladjustments, and needed only skillful manipulation."

"Now it is perceived that Nature intended that everyone should be healthy, and that the only causes of disease are either a mechanical injury or poison or impurities taken in to the system or waste remaining there and clogging it. Disease, according to the latest school of thought, is simply the effort of Nature to remove poison and obstructions and should not be suppressed or aborted, but Nature should be aided to sustain the system until the work is completed."

"Thousands have arisen to testify that osteopathy restored them to health. Almost daily additional triumphs over so-called incurables are being recorded, evidencing that the osteopaths are finding the keys and opening the seals and coming into possession of the glorious heritage to mankind—health, through Nature's methods."

"Here is seen osteopathy, backed by multitudes of witnesses from all walks of life, who attest to its potency and clamor for its treatment. It is contributing to human happiness and comfort by displacing disease with health."

CURE YOUR KIDNEYS

Do Not Endanger Life When a Seymour Citizen Shows You the Cure.

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a certain cure is offered them?

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work.

If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney diseases, cure yourself now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease sets in. Read this Seymour testimony:

Mrs. H. Moritz, 405 E. Fifth street, Seymour, Ind., says: "It gives me great pleasure to confirm all I previously said in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills, when I publicly recommended them. This remedy was used by a member of my family and it effected a permanent cure of kidney trouble."

BLACK SCHOOLGIRL OF 70 WINS TWO GOLD MEDALS

Led Her Class and Was Late Once and Then Only Three Minutes.

The proud wearer of two gold medals from the New York board of education for merit in study and attendance in the primary department of public school 157 is Mrs. Martha Harmon, who was born in slavery in Kentucky seventy years ago.

For four years this schoolgirl has been learning her three R's, and she takes great pride in the tokens she has received showing how diligent her work has been and how in all that time she never missed school and was late only once and then only three minutes.

When she questioned the principal and the teachers they thought she was getting information for one of her family. They gave her the facts as to enrolling and answered the timid question she finally put as to the age requirement of pupils.

They had no idea she meant herself when they told her that the only qualification necessary was a desire for education. Then she astonished them by asking that her name he put on the list.

"You?" they said. "Why, you don't really mean it, do you?"

"Yes, I mean it," she answered. "I'm only sorry that I didn't do it years ago. But if it ain't too late now, why, I want to learn all I can."

So she was put in the first class of the elementary department, and she has followed the course steadily since, being promoted with the rest of her class and showing a real proficiency in her studies, though the teachers had expected to indulge her, thinking that the long disuse of her mental faculties might have dulled them.

But instead of lagging she led. That's why she got the gold medal for her work. And her sense of punctuality was on a par. In the worst storms she put on a heavy coat and old fashioned mittens and trotted to school with her books under her arm. She is absolutely unconscious of the fact that she is doing anything unusual. She doesn't think that at her age she has outlived her usefulness.

Mrs. Harmon was a girl when her people took her into Ohio, where slavery was taboo. She lived in Dayton, and it is said that her name was taken from the family of Judson Harmon, the present governor of Ohio.

HE HANDLED BILLIONS.

Late George Marlor Once Counted $2,000,000 In Ninety Seconds.

George W. Marlor, cashier and assistant treasurer of the United States subtreasury at New York, a veteran of the Seventh regiment's civil war roll and for forty-six years attached to the Wall street stronghold of government funds, is dead.

Mr. Marlor has handled billions of dollars of American money, probably more money than any man who ever lived in the United States, and his deft fingers held many records for speed in counting bills. Once he counted $2,000,000 in notes in ninety seconds. The $10,000,000 purchases of gold from the Bank of England or the Bank of France that sometimes came under his jurisdiction when the gold was brought to the assay office were merely small routine matters to him, and he handled them with as much ease and freedom as though they involved nothing more important than the purchase of a pound or so of tea.

With other folk's money, in spite of his haste in passing it along on its mission, Mr. Marlor was a particular person. Let a counterfeit one dollar bill find its way into the realm of the financially elect, and his trained hand and eye picked it out from its legitimate fellows with unerring accuracy. His sense of touch was so acute that he could tell the good from the bad instantly without looking at the face of the bills.

$10,000 IDLE FIFTY YEARS.

Now Woman Seeks to Collect on a Certificate of Deposit.

Mrs. Julia Richardson Leonard has a certificate of deposit on a Trenton (Tenn.) bank for $10,000 nearly fifty years old, and is now making an effort to collect the money. The certificate was given to her by a brother, J. L. L. Richardson, the deposit being made Jan. 23, 1863.

Richardson was a Union soldier and died soon after the deposit was made. He said nothing about the certificate of deposit, and it was found among his belongings some time later. He was a member of the One Hundred and Twenty-second Illinois infantry. He enlisted in 1863 and the same year was returned to his home to die. How he came into possession of the $10,000 which he deposited is not known.

Mrs. Leonard, who was the payee of the certificate of deposit, was at that time sixteen years old. She came into possession of the certificate as soon as it was found among her brother's possessions, but made no effort to draw the amount from the Bank of Trenton. The question of the incorporation of the Bank of Trenton, which may have undergone some change of incorporation after the war, and a question in regard to the kind of currency which John Richardson deposited are to be considered. If it were Confederate currency it would have been good in 1863, but worthless in 1865.

S.S.S. CURES SKIN DISEASES

A perfect condition of the skin exists as long as the blood is normal, but when it becomes contaminated with humors and acids its supply of nutritive properties is greatly lessened, and it becomes a sharp, acrid fluid which diseases instead of preserving the natural health and texture of the skin. Then come Skin Diseases; the character of the eruption depending upon the nature of the humor with which the blood is infected. If there is an excess of acid in the circulation the trouble is characterized by itching and burning eruptions. Other impurities produce watery blisters, rashes, etc., commonly known as Eczema, Tetter or Salt Rheum, while still other morbid matters in the circulation cause Acne, pimples and like troubles. It is right and proper to get what relief one may from the application of washes, salves, etc., but such treatment should not be depended on alone to produce a cure—only a thorough purification of the blood can accomplish this. S. S. S. cures Skin Diseases of every character and kind, because it purifies the blood. It goes down into the circulation and removes the humors and acids, builds up the weak, acrid blood, and completely cures all skin affections. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free. S. S. S. is for sale at drug stores.

A Big Dinner.

The patrons of the Cox school gathered at the school house at noon Saturday and gave a testimonial of their appreciation of the work of the teacher, Miss House, during the past year. They spread a splendid dinner which was enjoyed by all. It was one of the kind that testifies to the prosperity of the people and their belief in enjoying their prosperity.

John Bebout, an old man who came here recently from Madison, was put on the train by Marshal Abell and returned to that town this morning. He is badly crippled and not considered right mentally. He claimed to be looking for work and has been staying in a small house in the south part of the city. He had no furniture in the house and people living in the neighborhood say he has had no food for several days excepting the little taken in to him by persons learning of his condition. Some of the women of that section were alarmed by his actions. It is said he wandered around the house and yard during the night carrying a lantern and making strange noises.

For the first time the local post office was closed yesterday in conformity with the Sunday closing order recently received from the department. No dissatisfaction was expressed, the people generally considering the order a right and just one. A few persons forgetting the office was not to be opened, appeared but when they found the windows closed and recalled the order, they went on their way cheerfully. A number of them said they didn't care for their mail particularly and that calling at the office Sunday was only a habit with them.

SNAPSHOTS AT CELEBRITIES

B. F. Bush, New President of Missouri Pacific.

The election of Benjamin Franklin Bush, president of the Western Maryland railroad, to the presidency of the Missouri Pacific railroad indicates that the control of the management of the system is to remain in the hands of the Goulds. Commenting on the selection of Mr. Bush, George Gould said:

"I was much influenced in my advocacy of his election by the results he has attained in his administration of the Western Maryland property and by the esteem in which I knew he was held by Mr. Rockefeller, who is so largely interested in the Western Maryland and who, next to our family, is the largest stockholder in Missouri Pacific."

Mr. Bush, head of Missouri Pacific, began his railroad career in 1882 as a rodman with the Northern Pacific. He soon rose to be a division engineer. The Oregon Improvement company next employed him as chief engineer and general superintendent. He went with the Northwestern Improvement company as general manager and with the Western Coal and Mining company as vice president. In 1907 he was sent to Baltimore as fuel agent for the Missouri Pacific. The Goulds put him into the Western Maryland. At the same time he served as president of the Davis Coal and Coke company and as president of the Pittsburg Terminal Railroad and Coal company, since leased by the Pittsburg Coal company. He is fifty-one and a native of Wellsburg, Pa.

New Senator From Montana.

Henry L. Myers of Montana, who succeeded Thomas H. Carter as United States senator, is little known outside his state, but has been prominent in Montana politics for the past fifteen years. Senator Myers is known as an experienced warrior. Together with

HENRY L. MYERS.

State Senators Whiteside and Clark, he made a long and arduous struggle against the seating of former Senator William A. Clark, the copper magnate, at the time of the latter's first election to the United States senate in 1899. That contest resulted in the unanimous finding of the senate committee on elections against the seating of Mr. Clark, who resigned his seat.

Senator Myers is a native of Missouri and will be forty-nine years old next October. As a boy he worked on his father's farm, later taught school, became a newspaper man and finally studied law and was admitted to the bar. He moved to Montana in 1893 and opened a law office at Hamilton. He served two terms as prosecuting attorney of Ravalli county and in 1898 was elected state senator. The new senator is described by his friends as an old school Democrat.

FOR THE CHILDREN

What Was It?

Guess what he had in his pocket.
Marbles and tops and sundry toys,
Such as always belong to boys?
A bitter apple, a leather ball?
Not at all.

What did he have in his pocket?
A bubble pipe and a rusty screw,
A brassy watch key broken in two,
A fishhook in a tangle of string?
No such a thing.

What did he have in his pocket?
Gingerbread crumbs, a whistle he made,
Buttons, a knife with a broken blade,
A nail or two with a rubber gun?
Neither one.

What did he have in his pocket?
Before he knew it it slyly crept
Under the treasures carefully kept,
And away they all of them quickly stole—
'Twas a hole!

—Child's Hour.

A New Kind of Policeman.

Did you ever hear of a bear acting the part of a policeman? Yet I knew one, and, although he did not wear a uniform nor helmet nor did he carry a club, he captured a thief. His name was Bruin, and he danced to gather in the pennies for his young Italian master. Late one afternoon the Italian stopped at a farmhouse and begged to stay all night. He ordered Bruin to dance for the farmer's children, and before retiring he shut the bear in the barn for safe keeping. During the night the family was aroused by a great noise coming from the barn and a loud cry of "Help! Help!"

The farmer ran to the spot, followed by Bruin's master. They saw a strange sight—Bruin with his huge arms around a man's neck, hugging him tightly. The bear was muzzled, so he could do the man no great harm, but the man was too frightened to notice the muzzle. The man was a dishonest neighbor who had entered the barn to steal a fine calf. In the darkness he had stumbled over the bear, who seized him and held him fast.

The Italian called out, "Hug him, Bruin!" The bear continued to hug until his master called him away, and the neighbor went away a frightened and wiser man.

Serpentine Tag.

Every boy and girl plays tag, but few are acquainted with it in its liveliest form—namely, as serpentine tag. For this good variation a large square is drawn on the ground or on the bare floor, and the person who is to be "it" takes up the position within this boundary line, while the rest remain outside.

He is armed with a long wand, at the end of which is a tuft of raw cotton dipped in flour. Any one crossing the chalk line or, in fact, venturing within reach of the tufted wand can be tagged if the tagger can catch him. A white flour mark on dress or coat is proof positive that a boy or girl has been tagged. As soon as any one is tagged he must take the free hand of the person tagging and accompany him in his sorties against other invaders. Each person who is tagged joins hands with the pursuers, and it is when the pursuing line has become really long and unwieldy that the game is funniest and most exciting, though there is laughter all through it.

Plants and Animals.

Plants are like animals in many ways. The animal breathes; so does the plant. The animal has veins through which the blood flows, carrying life and vigor to every part. The plant, too, has veins through which the plant's blood flows to every part.

Through the center of the leaf runs a tough, heavy vein from which are sent out many branches. These in turn send out smaller branches, and these last still smaller ones until the whole leaf is covered with a network of veins. The moisture is drawn from the earth through the roots and carried by these veins to every part of the leaf.

Look again at the surface of the leaf and you will see little pores. Through these the leaf breathes, taking in the air as we take it into our lungs. But the leaf takes that part of the air which the animal cannot use, and the animal takes the part the plant cannot use. In this we see the wisdom of God, who made all things.

Conundrums.

What grows the less tired the more it works? An auto wheel.

What fruit is the most visionary? The apple of the eye.

Why should a hairdresser be sad? Because he curls up and dyes.

What causes a cold, cures a cold and pays for the doctor? A draft.

What did Job's wardrobe consist of? Three poor comforters.

What is worse than raining cats and dogs? Hailing cabs and cars.

When is a chicken's neck like a bell? When it is wrung for dinner.

Why are pianos noble characters? Because they are upright, grand and square.

If tough meat could speak what English poet would it mention? Chaucer.

What should a clergyman preach about? About half an hour.

Japanese Maxim.

Not every one knows that the group of three monkeys so often seen in photographs from Japan represent a favorite maxim of the Japanese. One monkey holds his hand over his ear that he may "hear no evil," the center one covers his mouth with his hand that he may "speak no evil," and the third covers both eyes with his hands that he may "see no evil." This group is found above one of the temples of Nikko and was carved by a famous left handed sculptor.

HINTS FOR THE BUSY HOUSEWIFE

New Strainer Spoon That Lightens Kitchen Work.

A strainer spoon for which many advantages are claimed by the New York man who devised it is shown herewith. The secret of this spoon's versatility lies in the fact that it is only partially meshed and that the bowl has enough solid metal to enable it to be used in straining, for skimming jelly or soup, poaching eggs, whipping cream or for any of the myriad uses to which spoons are put in the kitchen. As will be noticed the bowl has a wide strip of metal around the edge, only a comparatively small portion in the center having the wire meshing. The consequence is that this implement can be used either as a spoon or a strainer and the cook need not go to the cutlery drawer a dozen times while preparing a meal to get just the utensils needed for a particular task.

Banana Fritters.

Yolks of two eggs well beaten and one-half a cup of milk, one tablespoonful olive oil or butter, one saltspoon salt, one cup of flour. When ready to use add the whites of the eggs beaten stiff and a tablespoonful of sugar; cut four bananas in six parts, lengthwise, and then crosswise; put them into a bowl, sprinkle with powdered sugar and three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice; cover and let stand an hour; cover each piece with the batter and fry in deep fat; drain on brown paper; serve hot, with lemon sauce.

Fresh Tripe and Vegetable Soup.

Fresh tripe cut in inch pieces and fried in a little butter. Boil until yellow. An onion cut up and also fried. Add one cup of water and stew until the tripe is tender. Add three cups of milk and one cup of peas or beans (cooked). Shred some carrots, add these and pepper and salt and one-half cup of capers or chopped pickles, into which a pinch of soda is stirred. Add these just as it is ready to serve. Some toast cut in squares and rubbed in garlic is a great addition to those that love garlic.

Tomato Ketchup.

Cook one gallon of choice ripe tomatoes, strain them and cook again until quite thick. About fifteen minutes before taking up put into them a small level teaspoonful of cayenne pepper, one tablespoonful of mustard seed, half a tablespoonful of whole allspice, all tied in a thin white cloth bag. At the same time add one heaping tablespoonful of sugar and one teacupful of best vinegar. Salt to suit taste. Seal in air tight bottles or jugs.

Foam Sauce.

Dissolve a tablespoonful of cornstarch in two tablespoonfuls of cold water, pour over it a cup of boiling water and cook until clear. Cream together a half cup of butter and one of sugar and pour it over the boiling starch, stirring rapidly, which causes it to foam. Flavor with a teaspoonful of vanilla and two of vinegar, which give it something the flavor of wine.

Hungarian Carrots.

Peel and cut carrots into pieces one inch and a half in length. Cut these pieces into thin slices and cut these slices into strips a little larger than matches. Boil them in salt water until tender. Drain off the water and add one-half cup of sugar and one-fourth cup of vinegar. Cook for 15 minutes in this mixture and serve.

To Sponge Wool Cloth.

Wring a piece of cotton cloth out of water, leaving it so wet that it will just escape dripping. It should be a little wider than the cloth to be sponged. Spread it on the wool and iron until it is dry, then wring out of water again and lay on, lapping over the edge of the part sponged at first.

Stewed Brown Beans.

A sweet Spanish red pepper or two cooked with stewed brown beans improve the flavor, and a slice of onion is a further improvement. Beans do not readily take a foreign flavor. There is consequently little danger of overseasoning them. Some persons add a tomato as well.

Tea and Coffee Stains.

A tea or coffee stain that has been allowed to get stubborn can be removed by moistening the spot with cold water, spreading it with glycerin and leaving it for several hours. At the end of the time wash with soap and water and repeat if necessary.

CHAPTER III.

A SCRAP OF PAPER.

SHORTLY after this a fresh relay of police arrived, and I could hear the whole house being ransacked. I had found my shoes and was sitting in my own private room before a fire which had been lighted for me on the hearth. I was in a state of stupor now.

The storm, which had been exceedingly fierce while it lasted, had quieted down to a steady fall of snow. Had its mission been to serve as a blanket to this crime by wiping out from the old snow all telltale footsteps and such other records as simplify cases of this kind for the detectives it could not have happened more apropos to the event. While this filled me with relief in one way, it added to my care in another, for the storm which could accomplish so much in so short a time was a bitter one for a young girl to meet, and Carmel must have met it at its worst in her lonesome struggle homeward.

The door behind me opened, and I turned to face Dr. Perry, once a practicing physician and my father's intimate friend, now a county official of no ordinary intelligence and, what was better, of no ordinary feeling.

His attachment to my father had not descended to me, and for the moment he treated me like a stranger.

"I am the coroner of this district," said he. "I have left my bed to have a few words with you and learn if your detention here is warranted. They have told me what you had to say in explanation of your presence here where a crime of some nature has taken place. But I should like to hear the story from your own lips. You have been intending to marry Miss Cumberland?"

"Yes." I looked the man directly in the eye. "Our wedding day was set."

"Did you love her? Pardon me. If I am to be of any benefit to you at this crisis I must strike at the root of things. If you do not wish to answer say so, Mr. Ranelagh."

"I do wish." This was a lie, but what was I to do, knowing how dangerous it would be for Carmel to have it publicly known where my affections were really centered? "I am in no position to conceal anything from you. I did love Miss Cumberland. We have been engaged for a year."

"I see, and she returned your love?"

"Sincerely." Was the room light enough to reveal my guilty flush? She had loved me only too well, too jealously, too absorbingly for her happiness or mine.

"And the sister?"

It was gently but gravely put, and instantly I knew that our secret was out, however safe we had considered it. This man was cognizant of it, and if he, why not others? Why not the whole town? I made my reply in these words:

"Her sister is her sister. I hardly think that either of us would be apt to forget that. Have you heard otherwise, sir?"

He was prepared for equivocation, possibly for denial, but not for attack. His manner changed and showed distrust, and I saw that I had lost rather than made by this venturous move.

"Is this your writing?" he suddenly asked, showing me a morsel of paper which he had drawn from his vest pocket.

I looked and felt that I now understood what the pines had been trying to tell me for the last few hours. That compromising scrap of writing had not been destroyed. It existed for her and my undoing. But Carmel was no fool even if she had wild and demoniacal moments. This could not be my note to her—that fatal note which would make all denial of our mutual passion unavailing.

"Is it your writing?" my watchful inquisitor repeated.

I looked again. The scrap was smaller than my note had been when it left my hands. If it were the same then some of the words were gone. Were they the first ones or the last? It would make a difference in the reading or, rather, in the conclusions to be drawn from what remained. If only the mist would clear from before my eyes or he would hold the slip of paper nearer. The room was very dark. The —the—

"Is it your writing?" Coroner Perry asked for the third time.

There was no denying it. My writing was peculiar and quite unmistakable. I should gain nothing by saying no.

"It looks like it," I admitted reluctantly, "but I cannot be sure in this light. May I ask what this bit of paper is and where you found it?"

"Its contents I think you know. As for the last question, I think you can answer that also if you will." Saying which he quietly replaced the scrap of paper in his pocketbook.

I followed the action with my eyes. I caught a fresh glimpse of a darkened edge and realized the cause of the faint odor which I had hitherto experienced without being conscious of it. The scrap had been plucked out of the chimney. She had tried to burn it. I remembered the fire and the smoldering bits of paper which crumbled at my touch. And this one—this, the most important, the only important one of them all—had flown, half scorched, up the chimney and clung there within easy reach.

The whole incident was plain to me, and I could even fix upon the moment when Hexford or Clarke discovered this invaluable bit of evidence. It was just before I burst in upon them from the ballroom, and it was the undoubted occasion of the remark I then overheard:

"This settles it. He cannot escape us now."

During the momentary silence which now ensued I tried to remember the exact words which had composed this note:

"Tonight—10:30 train—we will be married at P. Come, come, my darling, my life. She will forgive when all is done. Hesitation will only undo us. Tonight at 10:30. Do not fail me. I shall never marry any one but you."

Was that all? I had an indistinct remembrance of having added some wild and incoherent words of passionate affection affixed to her name. Her name! But it may be that in the hurry and flurry of the moment these terms of endearment simply passed through my mind and found no expression on paper. I could not be sure any more than I could be positive from the half glimpse I got of these lines which portion had been burned off—the top, in which the word "train" occurred, or the final words, emphasizing a time of meeting and my determination to marry no one but the person addressed. The first gone, the latter might take on any sinister meaning. The latter gone, the first might prove a safeguard, corroborating my statement that an errand had taken me into town.

It would be hard to find an alibi for Carmel if suspicion once turned her way. She had not met me at the train. The unknown but doubtless easily to be found man who had handed me her note could swear to that fact.

Then the note itself! I had destroyed it, it is true, but its phrases were present to my mind. They were these—innocent, if she were innocent, but how suggestive in the light of her probable guilt:

"I cannot. Wait till tomorrow. Then you will see the depth of my love for you—what I owe you, what I owe Adelaide."

I was conscious that not a look or movement of mine had escaped the considerate but watchful eye of the man before me.

"You do not relish my questions," he dryly observed. "Perhaps you would rather tell your story without interruption. If so I beg you to be as explicit as possible. The circumstances are serious enough for perfect candor on your part."

I took a quick resolve. I would appear to throw discretion to the winds, to confide to him what men usually hold sacred, to risk my reputation as a gentleman, rather than incur a suspicion which might involve others more than it did myself.

"I will give you an account of myself," said I. "I did love Adelaide once, or thought so, but my feelings changed. A great temptation came into my life. Carmel returned from school and —you know her beauty, her fascination. A week in her presence and marriage with Adelaide became impossible. But how evade it? I knew only the coward's way—to lure this inexperienced young girl, fresh from school, into a runaway match. This evening I had set as the limit of my endurance of the intolerable situation. During a minute of solitude preceding the dinner at Miss Cumberland's house on the hill I wrote a few lines to her sister, urging her to trust me with her fate and meet me at the station in time for the 10:30 train. I meant to carry her at once to P., where I had a friend in the ministry who would at once unite us in marriage. I was very peremptory, for my nerves were giving way under the secret strain to which they had been subjected for so long, and she herself was looking worn with her own silent and uncommunicated conflict.

"To write this note was easy, but to deliver it involved difficulties. Miss Cumberland's eyes seemed to be more upon me than usual. Mine were obliged to respond, and Carmel, seeing this, kept hers on her plate or on the one other person seated at the table, her brother Arthur. But the opportunity came as we all rose and passed together into the drawing room. Carmel fell into place at my side, and I slipped the note into her hand. She had not expected it, and I fear that the action was observed, for when I took my leave of Miss Cumberland shortly after I was struck by her expression. I had never seen such a look on her face before, nor can I conceive of one presenting a more extraordinary contrast to the few and commonplace words with which she bade me good evening. I neither knew Adelaide nor did I know the girl whose love I had so overestimated. She failed me, Dr. Perry. I was met at the station not by herself, but by a letter—a few hurried lines given me by an unknown man—in which she stated that I had asked too much of her—that she could not so wrong her sister who had brought her up and done everything for her since her mother died. I have not that letter now or I would show it to you. In my raging disappointment I tore it up on the place where I received it and threw the pieces away. I had staked my whole future on one desperate throw, and I had lost. If I had had a pistol"— I stopped, warned by an easy movement on the part of the man I addressed that I had better not dilate too much upon my feelings. I pulled myself together and proceeded to finish my story with greater directness.

"I did not leave the station till the 10:30 train had gone. It was from sheer preoccupation of mind that I drove this way instead of straight out by Marshall avenue. As I reached the bend in the road where you get your first sight of the buildings I saw a thin streak of smoke rising from one of its chimneys, and, anxious as to its meaning, I drove in"—

"Wait, Mr. Ranelagh, I am sorry to interrupt you, but by which gate did you enter?"

"By the lower one."

"Was it snowing at this time?"

"Not yet. It was just before the clouds rushed upon the moon. I could see everything quite plainly."

My companion nodded, and I went breathlessly on. Any question of his staggered me. I was ignorant of the facts at his command. I was not able to conjecture by what chance or at whose suggestion the police had raided the place and discovered the tragedy which had given point to that raid. I continued, but I omitted all mention of the most serious part of my adventure—said nothing of my vision of Carmel or the terrible conclusions which her presence there had awakened.

"There is no more to say," I concluded. "I know nothing. It is all a phantasmagoria to me—with no more meaning than a nightmare. She is dead—I know that—but beyond that all is doubt—confusion. I can neither understand nor explain."

SERVING COCOA.

Two Dozen Persons May Be Supplied as Easily as One.

When entertaining friends it is convenient, if cocoa is to be served, to have it ready as needed. In following this plan there is no danger of the supply failing should the demand exceed expectation, nor is the cocoa wasted in case fewer than are expected respond to the invitation.

To make enough cocoa for twenty-five or thirty persons put one cup and three-fourths of boiling water into a double boiler, add three-fourths of a cup of cocoa and let it stand until the cocoa is moistened. Stir thoroughly, then add one cup and three-fourths of boiling water and stir again. Cook one hour and add two and one-half cups of sugar, stir till dissolved and let cook half an hour. When cold add half an ounce of vanila extract and strain through a cheesecloth. There will be one quart of cocoa sirup. This may be used at once or set aside for use as needed.

To serve to two persons divide one-fourth of a cup of the sirup between two cups and pour three-fourths of a cup of milk into each cup. Stir and it is ready. For thirty scald six quarts of milk in a large double boiler, add the quart of cocoa sirup, beat with spoon or egg beater and serve at once.

This method is recommended by the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

Deviled Eggs.

Deviled fried eggs require four eggs, a teacupful of rice, gravy, curry powder, salt, cayenne and lemon juice. Wash and parboil the rice, then simmer till perfectly cooked in a little gravy. Season with curry powder, cayenne and a squeeze of lemon. Arrange this on a dish, lay the eggs (fried) over it, scatter with a little chopped parsley and cayenne and serve at once.

ANXIETY.

Anxiety is the poison of human life, the parent of many sins and of more miseries. Can your solicitude alter the cause or unravel the intricacy of human events? Can your curiosity pierce the cloud the Supreme Being hath made impenetrable? To provide against every important danger by the employment of the most promising means is the office of wisdom, but at this point wisdom stops.—Blair.

THE STORY OF A WAR VETERAN

A Soldier's Sacrifice For the Woman He Loved.

A generation ago while traveling I was obliged to spend a Sunday in a small town. In the morning after breakfast to kill time I strolled into the country. Spring was coming on, the sun was shining warm and bright, the birds were singing and the buds opening. Passing a cemetery, I turned in at the open gate. In one corner a man and a boy of perhaps four years of age were looking over a group of headstones of uniform style. I sauntered to where they were and saw at a glance that they marked the graves of soldiers who had died in Union armies during the civil war. I spoke to the man, asking for information, and he told me that the spot had been set apart by the authorities and as many bodies of the country's soldier boys as possible brought back and interred there.

"There's Jack Kilburn," he said, pointing. "He and I enlisted on the same day. Over there lies Gordon Whitcomb, who was shot down beside me at Shiloh. Tom Porter, just beyond, died in hospital, all chums of mine."

I noticed a headstone on which was cut:

RAYMOND HALL.
He Died For the Girl He Loved.

"It looks as though there might be a story behind that epitaph," I remarked.

"That? Oh, no—only a plain incident." Then, unconscious that he was giving a romance, he told me the incident:

"Those were exciting days when we fellows marched away to the tune of 'The Girl I Left Behind Me,' and the worst of it was that several of us were leaving behind the same girl. She was the belle of the town, and we were all in love with her. But there was no chance for more than one, the one the girl loved, though there were two who led all the rest. These two were Raymond Hall and another fellow who—well, the other fellow was Jim Martin. Hall was desperately in love with the girl, but it was the other fellow who had taken her fancy—nobody knew why, for Hall was certainly the better man of the two. He didn't know that his rival had got ahead of him till after the regiment got down into Kentucky. Then he saw letters coming in for Jim Martin addressed in a hand that he recognized.

"In some people love seems to work like a disease. I mean those cases you read about in the newspapers where they kill themselves or the one they love or sometimes a rival. Hall suffered like one of these, but he didn't kill anybody. He exposed himself recklessly when we were under fire, and it looked as if he were trying to get himself killed, but no one knew whether he was or not, for he was a reticent fellow and kept his own secret.

"Two years passed, two years of campaigning and hard fighting, during which the rivals fought shoulder to shoulder. Raymond always seemed to Jim to be resisting some terrible temptation, and in a fight when Hall was in his rear Martin felt uncomfortable. You see, they were in the same company, and under fire men get excited and sometimes kill a man in front.

"Well, in time the rivals were both taken prisoner in the same fight. While being transported south with other prisoners in a box car the whole car load took up some of the flooring and got out. Of course the guard went after them in hot haste, not stopping for a surrender when getting sight of one of them, but shooting him down as he ran. It happened that the rivals ran in the same direction and took refuge in some bushes very near together. Presently they heard a voice:

"'There's one of 'em down in those bushes.'

"'Jim,' said Raymond, speaking rapidly, 'I'm going to run for it.'

"'Don't you do it,' said Jim. 'They'll shoot you sure. If we lie low'—

"'The chances are they'll kill us both. They think there's only one here. I'll run and draw the fire. You live to go back and make the little girl happy.'

"There was no time for more words nor for any sort of protest on Jim's part. A Confederate was coming with a cocked gun. Raymond jumped up and ran like a deer. There was a shot, and he dropped dead. Then the Confederate went back to his comrades.

"Martin lay low till all was quiet, then went out and found his rival dead. There's no use trying to tell how a man would feel at such a time. Just think of him having suspected his friend of wanting to kill him, and here he was dead that the girl he loved might be happy with his rival. Martin buried the body in a fence corner with a big tree directly north, noted the place to know it again, then set off on two weeks' skulking till he got into the Union lines. Soon after the grave was within our pickets, and Martin took up Hall's body and sent it north."

The man stopped speaking and, taking his little boy by the hand, was leading him away when I asked:

"Who placed the headstone?"

"The girl."

"And what became of the man who was saved for her?"

"He married her."

"Thank you for your story, Mr."—I gave him time to help me out.

"Martin," he supplied. "I'm Jim Martin."

Bender, Misses Lottie Kirsch, Gertrude Sweany, Minnie Heinz, Gladys Coryell and Jack Howard, John Mendall, Mrs. Ella Stevens, Mrs. Henry Kirsch, of this city, and Joe Cudworth and Fred Bruning, of Indianapolis.

A Father's Vengeance

would have fallen on any one who attacked the son of Peter Bondy, of South Rockwood, Mich., but he was powerless before attacks of Kidney trouble. "Doctors could not help him," he wrote, "so at last we gave him Electric Bitters and he improved wonderfully from taking six bottles. Its the best Kidney medicine I ever saw." Backache, Tired feeling, Nervousness, Loss of Appetite, warn of Kidney trouble that may end in dropsy, diabetes or Bright's disease. Beware: Take Electric Bitters and be safe. Every bottle guaranteed. 50c at The Andrews Drug Co.

Surprise.

Mrs. Henry Otte was given a pleasant surprise Saturday evening at her home on Carter street by about sixteen of her neighbors. During the evening refreshments were served. Mrs. Otte was presented with a beautiful picture.

Business Change.

Walter Ortstadt has purchased the grocery store of Fremont Reed at the corner of Brown and Walnut streets. He took possession today.

Saved Many From Death.

W. L. Mock, of Mock, Ark., believes he has saved many lives in his 25 years of experience in the drug business. "What I always like to do," he writes, "is to recommend Dr. King's New Discovery for weak, sore lungs, hard colds, hoarseness, obstinate coughs, la grippe, croup, asthma or other bronchial affection, for I feel sure that a number of my neighbors are alive and well today because they took my advice to use it. I honestly believe its the best throat and lung medicine that's made." Easy to prove he's right. Get a trial bottle free, or regular 50c or $1.00 bottle. Guaranteed by The Andrews Drug Co.

Seymour Temperatures.

The following are the maximum and minimum temperatures as shown by the government thermometers at the Seymour volunteer weather observation station and reported by J. Robt. Blair, observer. The figures are for twenty-four hours ending at noon:

	Max.	Min.
May 8, 1911	83	41

Weather Indications.

Unsettled north. Fair south portion tonight and Tuesday.

A delivery team from the Hodapp Hominy Mill scared at an automobile this morning and ran away. It started near the Adams grocery on Ewing street and was finally stopped near the standpipe. When he saw the team start, the driver of the automobile did not stop his machine but continued at a rapid speed after the runaway team tooting his horn continuously. He finally passed the team after it had been caught without stopping his machine. He does not live in Seymour but an effort is being made to obtain his name. Some auto drivers are careless regarding regulations and laws and heedless of the rights of others.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

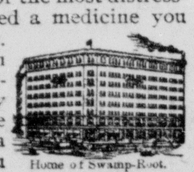

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for much sickness and suffering, therefore, if kidney trouble is permitted to continue, serious results are most likely to follow. Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys most, because they do most and should have attention first. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr Kilmer's Swamp-Root. A trial will convince you of its great merit.

The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest because its remarkable health restoring properties have been proven in thousands of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best.

Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.
